III. Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability

The questions whether the claimed invention appears to be novel, to involve an inventive step (to be non obvious), or to be industrially applicable have not been examined in respect of:

☐ the entire international application.

☒ claims Nos. 10

because:

☒ the said international application, or the said claims Nos. _____ relate to the following subject matter which does not require an international preliminary examination (specify):

See supplemental sheet

☐ the description, claims or drawings (indicate particular elements below) or said claims Nos. _____ are so unclear that no meaningful opinion could be formed (specify):

Continuation of: III

1. Claim 10 relates to a subject matter which, in the opinion of this Authority, falls under PCT Rule 67.1(iv). A report as to the industrial applicability of the subject matter of these claims is not therefore carried out (PCT Article 34(4)(a)(i)).

V. Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims	2-9	YES
	Claims	1	NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims		YES
	Claims	2-9	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims	1-9	YES
	Claims		NO

2. Citations and explanations

The report makes reference to the following documents:

D1: FR-A-2 629 797 (RAFFEGEAU DIDIER) 13 October 1989 (1989-10-13)

D2: CH-A-339 119 (VATTER) 31 May 1959 (1959-05-31).

1. The present application does not satisfy the criterion of PCT Article 33(2) because the subject matter of Claim 1 is not novel over the prior art as defined in the Regulations (PCT Rule 64.1 - 64.3).

- 1.1 Document D2, considered the closest prior art, discloses (cf. the figure, and page 1, column 1, lines 17 to 29) a cumulative packaging for extracting individual pouches (1) which have an interior and an edge enclosing this interior and of which at least two are pressed together to form a block, wherein inside this block a section of the edge (column 1, lines 16 to 23) of a first pouch lies substantially on top of the section of the edge of an adjacent second pouch and the sections of the edges of the respective adjacent pouches lying one on top of the other in this manner are fixed together, said pouches having different contents which can be removed in a predetermined order.

The subject matter of the claim is not therefore novel (PCT Article 33(2)).

- 1.2 The features of dependent Claims 2-6 are considered to be standard technical procedures for solving the problem of interest.
2. Document D1 discloses a method from which the subject matter of Claim 7 differs only in that the corners of the sections, which lie one on top of the other, of the edges of the product-filled pouches are displaced in a parallel manner.

However, this distinguishing method step is considered to be straightforward for a person skilled in the art, especially since the advantages achieved thereby are immediately foreseeable.

It follows that the subject matter of Claim 7 does not involve an inventive step (PCT Article 33(3)).

- 2.1 The additional features of dependent Claims 8 and 9 are known from D1 - cf. Fig. 2, reference sign 7 for Claim 8 and Fig. 3, reference sign 5 for Claim 9.

VII. Certain defects in the international application

The following defects in the form or contents of the international application have been noted:

1. Contrary to PCT Rule 5.1(a)(ii), the description does not cite document D1 or indicate the relevant prior art disclosed therein.
2. Pursuant to PCT Rule 11.11(a), the drawings may not contain text matter.

VIII. Certain observations on the international application

The following observations on the clarity of the claims, description, and drawings or on the question whether the claims are fully supported by the description, are made:

1. The application does not meet the requirements of PCT Article 6 because Claims 1 and 7 are not clear.

The generic term used in Claim 1 does not make it clear and unambiguous whether the individual pouches are part of the cumulative packaging.

The feature (Claim 1, final line, and Claim 7, line 5) "...which can be extracted in a predetermined order" clearly relates merely to the use of the cumulative packaging, and it is unclear if it is intended to define any structural features of the cumulative packaging or the method.

The feature that "the corners...are displaced in a parallel manner" (Claim 7, paragraph b) is not clear. It appears from the description and Fig. 7 that the corners of two edges lying one on top of the other are displaced relative to one another and transversally to the lengthwise extension of the edges. However, this interpretation does not appear to be clearly supported by the description and the drawings.
